We partied like it was our last night on Earth...

... and as it turns out, it just might be. Seems we all got a bit carried away with our celebration and we've been banished from the Earth, but that's a problem for next year!

We'd like to thank all of you for an excellent year. As much as it takes the ConCom and the Gophers to put on the convention each year, there wouldn't be much point if it weren't for all of you. Just walking through the halls listening to how much fun everyone is having makes it all worthwhile.

And since Capricon truly is a four day convention, here are some of the highlights from Sunday. The morning kicked off early with our annual Critter Crunch. There was mayhem, and robot parts flying everywhere. Or at least that's what I'd like to believe happened. Phandemonium, Capricon's parent organization, also held their annual board meeting, where Jerry Gilio and Mike Unger were elected to serve on the Board of Directors. And sadly then there were the Closing Ceremonies, where we were put on notice that we are no longer welcome on Earth, but fear not we have an Escape! plan.

A Goat's Tale:

Capricious may have had just a wee bit too much fun at Capricon this year. He still doesn't know how he ended up sleeping it off on the giant cake. He's pretty sure that in a couple of days he'll be as good as new again. But in the meantime, can you all talk a bit more quietly... his head hurts something fierce.

Fred Pohl

Unfortunately due to health reasons Fred Pohl was unable to join us this weekend. However he did take the time to show off his new t-shirt from Capricon 30!
